

Dr. Sean R. Tartt is a native of Georgia and is a product of DeKalb County. As a college student, in the summers, he worked as a paraprofessional, long term substitute teacher, and warehouse office supply clerk. This fueled his fire to become a teacher at Narvie J. Harris Traditional Theme School, 9th grade boy's head basketball coach and assistant varsity boy's basketball coach at Tucker HS, assistant principal at Lithonia Middle School, and principal at Narvie J. Harris Traditional Theme School. In 2014, Dr. Tartt was named the Region IV Principal of the Year. Dr. Tartt was promoted to serve as the Region III Superintendent in June of 2018. He supervises 17 schools (9-elementary/3-middle/and 4-high schools) and supports 14,000 students.

Dr. Tartt received a Bachelor of Science and a Master's Degree in Educational Leadership from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University. He received his Specialist in 2005 and Doctorate in 2008 in Educational Leadership from Argosy University in Atlanta. Dr. Tartt is also a PCC licensed Executive Coach credentialed through the Academy of Creative Coaching. Dr. Tartt was awarded the Outstanding Citizen Award from the Secretary of State in February of 2009 and in December of 2009. He has likewise received other awards, recognitions, and acknowledgement such as: Proclamation for Outstanding Service, Scholarship, and Leadership 2009 for the United States House of Representatives, the Governor's Outstanding Contribution to Education in 2009, and the DeKalb Commissioner's Community Service Award in 2002.

As a vibrant instructional, organizational, and forward-thinking leader, Dr. Tartt spends a great deal of his time learning and strengthening the educational toolboxes of others. Within his roles of administration, he has been sought to serve as a district hearing officer, instructional assistant principals' and principals' advisory member, and principal mentor. He is known for being a "hands on" type of leader and having strong ties in the community. He follows and mentors students as they matriculate from elementary to adulthood. Dr. Tartt is an established presenter of numerous educational topics as well as an extraordinary motivational speaker. He thoroughly enjoys sports, community events, and working outside in the yard. In all that he does, he leads, learns, and lives by Benjamin Franklin's quote, "If better is possible, good is not enough".
